About 3mm clear Nashiji patterned glass

3mm clear Nashiji patterned glass also named 3mm clear Nashiji embossed glass, 3mm clear Nashiji figured glass. It is a kind of decorative translucent glass with embossed patterns on one or both surfaces. Pattern glass is generally used where privacy or obscurity is demand but light transmission is still important. The most advantage of patterned glass is that it can allow light to pass through, at the same time, it can also prevent clear view. Generally speaking, it transmits only slightly less light than clear float glass.

Production of 3mm clear Nashiji textured glass

3mm clear Nashiji patterned glass is made with a rolled glass process. All rolled patterned glass begins as a batch of materials, including silica sand, soda, and lime. These materials are melted together in a tank, and then the molten glass mixture is fed onto a machine slab. The glass flows under a refractory gate which controls glass volume and speed then moves between two counter-rotating, water-cooled rollers. One of these rollers is embossed, imprinting a distinct pattern onto the soft surface of the glass while the other roller is smooth.
